There are already a number of relatively or actually small American cities which present means more available by choice because the are desirable places to live in or in which to bring up children. It is true that business man will not long overlook — American City.

A Good Selection.
The Town Board of Trustees of Jeffersontown has selected Mr. Frank Tyler as marshal and he will enter upon his duties as soon as he can be released and moves to town, which will be done in a few days. The Board is to be congratulated for their wisdom in securing the services of Mr. Tyler, as he is thoroughly qualified to fill the position in every way. He was formerly county patrolman and gave entire satisfaction.

Serious Accident.
Mr. George Sweeney, who resides about two miles from Jeffersontown on the Taylorsville road, happened to a very serious accident last Thursday evening when the mule he was riding ran away with him. The animal ran into the barn and Mr. Sweeney's head struck the cross piece at the top of the door, inflicting a severe scalp wound. Dr. L. A. Blankenbaker was summoned and attended him. Mr. Sweeney is suffering with concussion of the brain and it was thought at first that he would lose his life, but he is somewhat better at this time.

In Memoriam.
In loving remembrance of our dear father, Mr. Moses Bruce, who departed this life February 7, 1909:
God called you home to dwell with him
One year ago today
O Father, I was sad and wept
When you were called away;
But we have not forgotten you;
God knows we never will;
Though one long year has passed away,
We fondly love you still.

Die On Golden Wedding Day.
On the day which marked the passing of her fifty-fifth year of married life, surrounded by children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren, with golden wedding bells ringing clearly their joyous message, the gentle spirit of Mrs. Chas. Smoot, of South Park, passed out with the ending of the day last Friday. She had not been strong for some time and confessed that she felt too weak to join heartily in the festivities, but preferred to remain by the fireside and watch the celebration by her children. Late in the afternoon she became weaker and died at 9 o'clock. Both she and her husband are native Kentuckians and spent their entire married life here. Her death cast a gloom over the entire community. Mrs. Smoot is survived by her husband and five children.
Jeffersontown Creamery.
The Jeffersontown Creamery Co. held a meeting at the Jefferson town Bank yesterday and it was decided to make some very extensive repairs of the plant, such as putting in new machinery, etc., which may interfere to some extent with receiving milk, but the officials say they will be ready to get down to business in a very short time. Milk is now being received. Mr. B. E. Bragg, of Medina, Ohio, has been employed to take charge of the creamery as manager in place of Mr. M. M. Maling, who resigned. Mr. Bragg is a graduate of the Madison Dairy College, Madison, Wis., which is one of the largest and best dairy colleges in the country and places Mr. Bragg in the front rank as a butter maker.

Moved to Louisville.
Messrs. B. M. Wheeler and Bros. have moved from Jeffersontown to 1006 Bardstown Road, Louisville, where they will continue to do concrete work. The move was made because the location is more convenient to their work, as they have contracts for building all over this city. The beautiful Middletown Bank was built by Wheeler Bros., as well as many other good specimens of their work in this part of the city. Concrete building is the coming fad for dwellings as well as business houses and we predict for Messrs. Wheeler great success.

BIG LAND DEAL.
Messrs. McFerran and Sprowl Purchase Frank Lutes' Place—To Be Improved And Sold.

Messrs. John B. McFerran and F. R. Sprowl have just closed negotiations for the 32 acres of ground adjoining Jeffersontown, known as the Frank Lutes place and belonging to Mrs. Sallie Blankenbaker and the Louisville Baptist and Methodist churches on Broadway.

These gentlemen will improve the property considerably by building two handsome courts and making several streets, beginning as such as a clear lot can be secured. They also propose to give five acres of the land for a school, and Mr. McFerran will donate all his profits derived from selling the lots to the school. Mr. Sprowl will also give considerably to the school.
This is one of the largest deals ever made in this section of the county, as the property is the most desirable near the town. From $10,000 to $20,000 will be expended in improving the land, which means that old Jeffersontown will now soon be the ideal suburb of Louisville.

CHAPTER IX.

FLORA PLAYS TRICKS.

Florida, Charlie, Lura and Nina had scarcely gotten out of sight when the rest of the party rode up to the Marsden homestead.

"Where are the girls?" said Nina to Mr. Marsden, who sat on the porch smoking a cob-pipe.

"Well they air all gone," he answered, slowly removing the pipe from his mouth, and lazily stretching his limbs. He looked very indifferent, but Gladys imagined she could detect a merry twinkle in his eyes as he winked the smoke away.

"Gone?" gasped Nina. "Oh, dear, how provoking. Did they get tired waiting for us?"

"Well, I should say they did," said Mr. Marsden frankly, "but that is not the reason they are gone. They thought you had taken another road, the short cut across the rocky hill."

"What in the world could make them think that?" said Nina. "Did we not tell them that we would come for them?"

"Did you?" Well, Play told them differently. She said you had changed your minds and had gone the other road," said the farmer, laughing uproariously. Flora was a great favorite of his, and nothing pleased him more than to see her play tricks on the haughty Nina. They both smiled, except Nina.

"The little wretch! How dare she do that," she stormed, the blood rushing to her face. Then seeing the look of grave astonishment on Mr. Gilman's face, she bit her lip to keep back the words which she knew, if uttered, would lower her in his estimation. That was nothing, she said, she wished to avoid for she had set her heart on gaining his good opinion. The angry look suddenly left her face, and assuming a sweet smile, she turned her horse about, saying:

"Come, let us be off, and perhaps we may yet overtake them. To be sure, Play has been a little mischievous separating our party, and I felt very angry at first, but we shall have to forgive her this time for it is only one of her pranks."

"Play seems to be upon the war-path today," said Gladys.

"She is always on the war-path," said Ned, "but seems a little more mischievous today than usual."

They galloped away and soon caught up with Charlie and Lura but Play and Fred were some distance ahead, and lengthening that distance every minute, for Play seemed determined to be first to the ruins. And she succeeded.

"Let's go to the other side of the island," said she, darting away in the direction indicated. The others tried to keep pace with her, but soon found they could not, and she was soon lost to view among the bushes.

Nina walked slowly between the two young men, chatting volubly, and occasionally stopping to pluck flowers.

"Give us return to the boat," suggested Fred, after they had strolled about for some time.

"Very well," replied Nina, glancing about her. "I do not see Play, but that means she is waiting for us."

"And giving us 'Hall Columbia' for keeping her waiting," added Fred. They sauntered to the place where they had left her, but no boat was there.

CREAGER'S BUSINESS SCHOOL,

Second and Breckenridge, Louisville, Ky.

Our attendance is at least 90 per cent better this year than it was last. Why is it, do you ask? It is due to several good reasons: We have the best system, experienced teachers, and our school is private. In a word, we have all the requisites for rapid progress, and the people are getting more for their money here.

Bookkeeping, Penmanship, Shorthand, Typewriting and kindred subjects taught. Students may enroll at any time. Come to see us.

WHAT school?

When a young lady takes a course in CREAGER'S Short-hand in 12 weeks at Clark's school and goes into a high-grade office as a stenographer, she is a success.

"Come to see the morning" what school? Clark's is the only school in Louisville. Paul Jones, who is a well-known stenographer, says her employer, Charter (the greatest stenographer in the world).

12 Weeks in Charter makes a better stenographer than 6 months in the old Pitmanic system. We have handled them all and KNOWN. Enroll Monday, Day or Night. CLARK'S SCHOOL, 937 Fourth Avenue, LOUISVILLE.
